

BL5631 Practical Analysis of Genomic Data using R (4MCs)

This module will develop skills for genomic data analysis in biotechnology using realistic problems in target validation and precision medicine. The working environment will be in the programming language R on desktop workstations. This module will prepare students for more advanced analysis with larger data sets and more diverse genomic data.